

HOW CAN I SEND MONEY TO MEXICO?

Use the safest alternatives

We recommend remitting your savings through bank wire transfers. In this way, you avoid the risks of traveling with cash on you. Here we provide different alternatives you can use, depending on your situation.

1

If you have a bank account or regional account (Credit Union):

The Consular Protection Area is in charge of safeguarding your rights when you are not in Mexico. There you can get assistance regarding different matters:

- You can use the Directo a Mexico (Direct to Mexico) service, which allows you to transfer your resources at a competitive exchange rate by paying a small fee of 4 dollars per transaction approximately. For more information visit LINK

- You can make international transfers: this service is offered by most banks located in the U.S., like Wells Fargo, Chase, and Bank of America, as well as by credit unions

- You can send money through any of the following services:
 - Western Union
 - MoneyGram
 - Ulink
 - Pangea Money Transfer
 - Transfast
 - Ria Financial Services
 - Xoom (a PayPal service that allows sending money with your credit or debit card)
 - Giro Paisano by Telecom
 - Through Bansefi, if the money is remitted to a Prospera beneficiary

2

If you have an account in the U.S. but not in Mexico:

- Some banks allow you to open accounts online, like CitiBanamex, BBVA Bancomer, Banco Autofin México, Banregio, Compartamos and Bankaool

- Some services allow you to transfer money even if you do not have a bank account in Mexico:

- Western Union
- MoneyGram
- Ria Financial Services
- Ulink
- Pangea
- Money Transfer
- Transfast

3

If you do not have an account in the U.S. but you have a relative who can collect the money in an office:

- Some services allow sending money from the U.S.:

- Western Union
- MoneyGram
- Ria Financial Services
- Ulink
- Pangea
- Money Transfer
- Transfast